
U. S. PROTESTS MEXICO'S OIL LAND GRAB LAWS

Washington, May 23.—The drastic nature of the new Mexican petroleum laws has caused American properties with interests in the treatment of American oil prospectors by foreign governments. The law has just been transmitted to the Senate by President Harding.

The new law, which is the result of a long and bitter struggle between the Mexican government and the American oil companies, is a direct challenge to the American oil companies. It gives the Mexican government the right to expropriate all oil lands and oil wells in the country, and to operate them as a national monopoly. The law also gives the government the right to nationalize all oil lands and oil wells in the country, and to operate them as a national monopoly.

AFTER THE PURCHASE PRICE-DEPENDABILITY

Dodge Brothers have never lost sight of the fact that dependability must be included in the purchase price of their car.

Because of its dependability, the United States Government, officially selected this car without solicitation, for the strenuous service which the battlefields of France demanded.

Dodge Brothers will continue to build their car so well, that it will always be dependable and the purchase price will be as nearly as possible the last expenditure.

HEINZ OVEN BAKED BEANS with Tomato Sauce

Fatty eats them because they taste so good. Fatty's mother gives them to him because they are so wholesome and healthful—as well as good to eat. The whole family eats them for the same reasons.

There's a lot of nutriment in beans—if they are prepared the right way. The Heinz method of real baking in dry heat ovens preserves all this natural goodness, and makes beans the delicious, healthful food that beans should be.

There never was a flavor with the zip and tang of Heinz own Tomato Sauce. Made of choice sun-ripened tomatoes, skillfully spiced and seasoned, it is blended deliciously with the rich, oven-baked bean flavor. All in the spotless Heinz kitchens, made famous as the Home of the 57 Varieties.

RUSH WORK ON TEST REPLIES

Title Editor Considers June 12 Earliest Date to Expect List of Awards

THE EDITOR of the Boston American has received the replies to the contest for the title of "Best Paper in the World" and has decided to publish the list of awards on June 12, the earliest date possible. The contest was held for the first time in 1920 and the American was one of the papers competing. The list of awards will include the title of "Best Paper in the World" and a number of other prizes. The American was one of the papers that were in the running for the title of "Best Paper in the World" and the editor is confident that the American will receive the title.

LAMP EXPLOSION PROVES FATAL

Shock and Heavy Fumes of Burning Kerosene Kill Cambridge Man

THE DEATH of a Cambridge man, who was killed by a lamp explosion, is the latest in a series of deaths caused by such accidents. The man, who was named William, was killed by a lamp explosion in his home. The explosion was caused by a lamp that was not properly checked. The man was found dead in his home, and the cause of death was determined to be the lamp explosion. The explosion was very violent and caused a great deal of damage to the man's home. The man's family is now in mourning.

Vote to Continue Marine Strike

New York May 29—Marine engineers meeting at Council House here decided to submit no strike petition to the Marine Engineers' Union.

The vote was taken on the question of whether or not to submit a petition to the Marine Engineers' Union. The vote was taken by a majority of the engineers, and the result was that no petition was submitted. The engineers decided to continue their strike and to not accept any offer of compromise. The strike is expected to continue for some time longer.

SHOOT 2 MEN WITH MOTHER

Webster Lad Resorts Finding Visitors in Home on His Return

Webster, May 29—George Webster, a young man who was found in a state of attempted murder on the morning of the shooting of two men, was shot by a woman who was his mother. The woman was found in the home of the two men who were shot. The woman was shot in the back and was killed. The man who was shot was also killed. The police are now investigating the case.

Do You Know a Baby Sick With Constipation?

Tell the mother to give her a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

No dangerous mother with children in the house will risk having a child suffer from constipation. It is a very common ailment, but it is not one that should be taken lightly. It can lead to other serious ailments if not treated properly. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a safe and effective remedy for constipation in babies. It is made from natural ingredients and is easy to give. It is the best remedy for constipation in babies.

"The Woman God Changed"

"Let Him That Is Without Sin Among You First Cast a Stone at Her"

In a frenzy of jealousy "The Woman God Changed" shoots her unfaithful lover.

While justice waits for her life, God changes her soul. She is born again.

Then judge and jury try her. The verdict—an amazing, totally unlooked for verdict, will cause wide discussion.

Was the verdict just? Would you concur in the startling decision? Would God so judge a woman?

Scenario by Doty Hobart from Donn Byrne's famous story published in Hearst's Magazine. Directed by the master hand of Robert G. Vignola. Scenic effects by the famous Cosmopolitan Scenic Staff under the direction of Joseph Urban. It is a Paramount Picture.

What Edison Questionnaire Really Brings to Light

For more interesting than Mr. Edison's questions are the comments upon them.

Some are angry, some are amused, some ridiculous, but nearly all agree that the questions are beyond the average college man's requirements.

If that is so, the average college man ought to start over again and get a real working education.

Avoid from a very few technical ones, the questions chiefly relate to historical, geographical and statistical facts which are taught in elementary schools, are constantly met with in reading, and should be familiar to every grown man or woman with the slightest pretension to be ordinarily well informed.

If our colleges do turn out graduates who are stumped by such questions, then a lot of time is wasted in colleges which could be much more profitably spent in any good library or in conversation with intelligent persons.

Another point seems to be overlooked.

Mr. Edison is the man who is seeking young men to work for him. He knows the kind he wants to employ. Presumably he has the right to question applicants for jobs in a way that will show him whether they are the kind he wants to hire.

Apparently Mr. Edison wants young men who are interested enough in the history of the past, and of the present, and in the facts of invention, and production, to spend time in reading about such things, and who remember what they have read. Therefore, he asks questions which will be answered by the kind of young men he wants to hire and cannot be answered by the kind of young men he does not want to hire.

It is an eminently sensible scheme upon which Mr. Edison has hit.

Like all of his inventions, it does the work.

The inefficiency of our whole school system is notorious among men who constantly need bright and capable helpers.

There are literally thousands of men and women who have spent from twelve to eighteen years of their lives during the most plastic and formative period of their lives in schools—who cannot answer one-fourth of the easy, simple questions propounded by Mr. Edison, who cannot write clean, clear English or even carry on conversation with well-informed persons, and who do not know how to do one single thing well enough to make their work of value to employers.

The most deplorable narrowness of vision, intolerance of free speech and ignorance of the real facts of European relations and of the causes and activities of the great war was shown in the childish writings and speeches of college presidents, college professors and college men and women.

And we think that the outcry against Mr. Edison's simple test of what the colleges teach or do not teach those who attend them is a clear explanation of the naive credulity and simple-minded ignorance which distinguished the utterances and deeds of so many college professors and college students during the great war.

They simply wrote and spoke out of the abundance of what Mr. Edison truthfully and accurately calls their "amazing ignorance."

No 'Motherland' for the U.S.

Colonel Harvey Got It Wrong

Copyright, 1921, Max Gardner

George Harvey talked some plain common sense to our English brothers across the sea. It was hardly necessary to tell anybody that President Harding knows that he represents popular government and would not ignore orders concerning the League of Nations received last November. But it was just as well to say so.

Harvey was not quite as accurate when he talked the usual talk about "England, the mother country." It was all right for a diplomat, who must be diplomatic. But England is NOT the mother country of the United States. It was at one time the stepmother country, and unpleasantly so.

This country is friendly to all nations in Europe, but does not recognize any one of them as its MOTHER. We have here millions of Irish, millions of Jews, millions of Italians, many millions of Germans, we have Greeks, Armenians, Poles, Russians.

This nation represents the courage, intelligence and enterprise of all those nations and of many others. This is no Anglo-American nation, with England for a mother country, and the other nationalities her stepchildren.

The United States is indebted to England for certain things, including Shakespeare, Dickens, Keats, Shelley and others, including Arkwright and Stevenson.

We are indebted to many other nations in the same way, to Greece for teaching us, to France for teaching us the value of liberty, to Italy for discovering us, and to on.

INTELLIGENCE and COURAGE are the father and mother of the United States. We have no mother land.

Censorship of the Movies

In the course of the debate on moving picture censorship in the Massachusetts Senate, Mr. Chamberlain, who was strongly advocating censorship, declared that censorship of the moving picture was a first step in the direction of general censorship of the theatres and of the newspapers, in which, so far as it was constitutional, he declared he believed most heartily.

This newspaper had always contended that those who advocated censorship of the moving pictures either believe in censorship of the press, or are indifferent to the great democratic principle of the freedom of the press.

It is hard to believe that the thing which our forefathers considered so necessary to self-government that they protected it in the Constitutions of the United States and of all the States, should be viewed with so much indifference by our people today, and especially by our newspaper editors, that they will not take the trouble to consider what it was in the past which our fathers wanted to keep free from the interference of government bureaucracy.

We are convinced that if all the advocates of censorship realized that the moving picture is today being used to influence public opinion and to convey information to the public, even more than the newspapers were so used during the period of the formation of our Constitutions; and that the increasing use of moving pictures as propaganda agencies will make them the equal, or the superior, of the newspapers, as propaganda agencies, we repeat that we are convinced that if all the advocates of censorship realized these facts, at least a majority of them believe sufficiently in American principles and in American institutions to be unwilling to continue the advocacy of preposterous censorship of moving pictures, especially when they have not given a fair trial to other methods of keeping moving pictures up to their standard of good taste.

Nellie Bly Shows Folly and Danger of Hiring Foreigners for This Highly Important Work!—Letter From an Idle Operator.

By Nellie Bly.

I BELIEVE the most important position on a ship of the American navy is that of the radio operator.

In time of war, in case of an accident during peace time, his work keeps him on his feet to make.

That the radio operator on American vessels should be of the highest caliber is an obvious fact and indisputable. It may be said that the radio operator on American ships is of the highest caliber.

An able operator on a foreign vessel is a valuable asset. When they are in the United States, they are not so valuable.

It is a pity that the United States does not have a better system of training radio operators.

It is a pity that the United States does not have a better system of training radio operators.

Washington, to conduct a communication with this important apparatus.

I think it hardly likely that a man with a high school education could do this work.

The radio operator on American ships is of the highest caliber.

An able operator on a foreign vessel is a valuable asset.

It is a pity that the United States does not have a better system of training radio operators.

It is a pity that the United States does not have a better system of training radio operators.

Dear Miss Bly: I have been following with an interest the articles in the Boston American regarding the radio operator on American ships.

I am a radio operator and have spent some time on American ships.

The radio operator on American ships is of the highest caliber.

An able operator on a foreign vessel is a valuable asset.

It is a pity that the United States does not have a better system of training radio operators.

The River of Sleep

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

THEY are curious isles in the River of Sleep,
Curious isles without number,
We'll visit them all as we leisurely creep
Down the winding stream whose current is deep,
In our beautiful barge of Slumber.

The very first isle in this wonderful stream
Quite close to the shore is lying,
And after a supper of cakes and cream
We come to the Night-Mare-Isle with a scream,
And hurry away from it crying.

And next is the Island of Lullaby,
And everyone there rejoices,
The whole crew are only a perfumed sigh,
And the birds that sing in the treetops try
To imitate Mothers' voices.

A little beyond is the Isle of Dreams;
Oh, that is the place to be straying,
Everything there is just as it seems;
Dull, we call it, and sunshine always,
And no one calls us from playing.

And then we come to the drullest isle,
And the funniest sounds come pouring
Down from its boardwalks once in a while,
And we lean o'er our barge and listen and smile;
For that is the Isle of Snoring.

And the very last isle in the River of Sleep
Is the stupor-Isle of Waking,
We see it first with our eyes a-peep,
We see a yawn—then away we leap,
The barge of Slumber forsaking.

NEXT WAR TO SEE GUN OF 100-MILE RANGE

By Garrett P. Servis

In the present war, the most powerful gun ever built is being used. It is the 100-mile range gun.

In a vacuum it would travel at the same rate through the air, but in the air it is retarded by the resistance of the air.

The rate of retardation is that of a projectile fired from a gun. It is the same as the rate of retardation of a projectile fired from a gun.

There are some reports that the highest point would be reached with exactly half the horizontal range. But this is not true.

Curve Steeper
But in the air the motion is retarded by the resistance of the air. It is the same as the rate of retardation of a projectile fired from a gun.

Many Circumstances
There are many circumstances which affect the motion of a projectile. It is the same as the rate of retardation of a projectile fired from a gun.
